Mattress intended to be used for bedridden people who are at risk of developing bed sores. Mattress is made of high density and elastic foam and has removable castellated parts. Thanks to removable parts, the mattress is Individually adaptable by removing the segments (cubes). Castellated surface allows air to circulate freely and reduces possibility of moisture. Since skin is kept dry and the pressure to skin is reduced, there is lower possibility of developing pressure ulcers.

Mattress is intended to be used for patients at high risk of bedsore development. It has sandwich structure which consists of three layers. The „U” shaped bottom layer is made of high resilience and density foam which guarantees stability and durability. Medium layer of high resilience works as base for top layer of memory foam which perfectly adapts to user's body and distributes pressure evenly. Moreover, surface of memory foam is shaped in a way which allows free air circulation as well as preventing skin from friction and shear forces.
